TODD DEATH WITNESS HUNTED IN SANTA ANA

PEACE PLANS 'DEAD'; DUCE DEFIANT

Italians Win Three-Day Battle; Fascists Give Up Rings For Cause

By the Associated Press
Proposed plans to end the undeclared war between Italy and Ethiopia were virtually "dead," today. The Franco-British suggestion remained "only to be buried," a representative of an European power declared at Geneva. There is little chance the League of Nations council will accept the plan, authorities said, which has already been flatly rejected by Ethiopian officials.

Anthony Eden, British league delegate, said Great Britain would not continue to recommend or support the Franco-British plan if it does not "meet the approval" of Italy, Ethiopia and the league.

Duce's Defiance
In Rome, Premier Mussolini defiantly declared Italy would "fight to the end for her rights," and prepared to answer to his Fascist grand council the proposals of France and Great Britain for peace in East Africa. His supporters showed some dissatisfactions with the peace suggestions, giving Italy territorial and economic concessions in Ethiopia, in exchange for Ethiopian access to the sea, but there were indications he would accept the plan, with strong reservations—as a basis for negotiations for an eventual settlement.

As Il Duce made his speech, Italians staged a great "faith day" ceremony throughout the land in which women of the nation contributed their wedding rings to aid the Fascist campaign of resistance to league sanctions. Queen Helena, yielding her own and King Victor Emanuel's rings, invoked God to bring victory for Italy, and asserted in a message to other women of the land: "We pray for triumphs for Roman civilization in Africa."

Duce's Wife Helps
Donna Rachel Mussolini, wife of the premier, marched at the head of women of her vicinity and put wedding rings belonging to herself and her husband in an urn.

From the battlefield, some officials issued a communique stating that Italy's North Ethiopian army had defeated the Ethiopians in a three-day battle along the Takaze river, killing 500 warriors. The Italian dead in the battle were announced as 272 officers and men.

NATIONAL DEBT AT NEW HIGH

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (AP)—The national debt reached $30,555,791,967 today, passing the $30,000,000,000 mark on the first time in history.

A new high was caused by mid-December financing operations, which added $962,629,957 to the debt. The debt was near the figure estimated by President Roosevelt for the end of the fiscal year next June—$30,723,000,000.

BULLETINS

(By The Associated Press)

STUDENTS PROTEST
NANKING.—Five thousand students paraded early today, demanding action against North China autonomists. They sent representatives to officials, urging release of students who they asserted were imprisoned for patriotic activities.

MISSING BOAT FOUND
SAN PEDRO.—A Coast guard plane from San Diego found the 36-foot cabin cruiser Marlin adrift and out of gasoline off Seal Beach today. Search started last night after the boat was reported overdue in its voyage from San Diego to this harbor.

West Still To Be Heard In H. B. Tideland Oil Drilling Probe

One important witness remained to be called today in the grand jury's probe of the state tideland oil situation at Huntington Beach.

Supervisor N. E. West of Laguna Beach, whose prediction that the oil matter would develop into another Teapot Dome scandal was the first local intimation of trouble, has not yet been before the grand jury.

Craig, Utt Called
Today the investigating body continued its probe of the oil situation. Edward Craig of Brea, speaker of the state assembly, was one of the witnesses who appeared. Assemblyman James B. Utt of Tustin was the other. Neither recalled the nature of developments in the grand jury room.

Senator Nelson T. Edwards of Orange was before the grand jury Monday.

Supervisor West, who spent some time at Sacramento when legislation for development of the state tideland oil was considered, has said that several legislators admitted they were controlled by "big business."

Edwards Urged Probe
Senator Edwards reported that proponents of a bill allowing island drilling to exploit the state oil said it would cost a large sum of money to put their program through the legislature. He was one of those who urged the grand jury investigation. Mr. West was in favor of the island drilling bill.

Senator Edwards voted for a bill to allow whipstocking into the state pool from Standard Oil company property along the Huntington Beach bluff.

Based on telegraphed reports from merchants in representative cities, the increase is virtually equivalent to a 20 per cent improvement over the 1933 Christmas period.

If it is maintained, said Channing E. Sweetzer, managing director of the association, the prediction of a $4,500,000,000 retail business for the month will have been fulfilled.

Department store sales, he said, then will have surpassed any since 1930. The gain already recorded compares with a 10 per cent increase for the entire month of December, 1934, over the preceding Christmas season.

Every region shared the increase, the report showed. Some stores said their sales figures for Dec. 15 were higher than in any year since 1929.

Water Vote Tomorrow; Opposition 'Trick' Flayed

'PROMISE' ON DAM PLAN BRANDED

McFadden Raps Burke In Debate Here On Flood Bond Issue

By ROCH BRADSHAW
The assertion of opponents of the county water program that they would support it if the bond issue were reduced by $1,750,000 was branded last night as a mere oratorical trick.

The brand was applied by T. L. McFadden, Anaheim, today, in a debate before a capacity crowd at the Frances Willard school auditorium, with J. Frank Burke, former newspaper editor. Mr. McFadden recalled that in 1929 James Irvine promised to support Prado dam, but that he is opposing the program now.

"Can't Rely on It"
"They talk about a modified program," said Mr. McFadden. "They will no more vote for a modified dam than for Prado. Can we rely on a promise to support a modified dam when we have been so deceived about Prado?"

Mr. McFadden said he thought "common honesty" should compel Mr. Irvine to explain why in 1929 he promised to support the Prado dam and has since changed his mind. He said he believed Mr. Burke's assertion that he has not been employed by Mr. Irvine; but he raised the question why it was Mr. Burke and not Mr. Irvine who explained the latter's change of mind.

Asks Pointed Question
Why, asked Mr. McFadden, did Mr. Burke support the water program? (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

Three To Speak For Bonds Over KREG Tonight

Stanley Chapman, orange grower and business man of Fullerton, Ray Felton, editor of The Santa Ana Journal, and Sharpless Walker, Santa Ana attorney, will support the flood control and water conservation bonds tonight in a radio talk over station KREG, from 7:15 to 7:45 o'clock.

The three speakers will cover the issue thoroughly, list reasons for the bonds passage, and urge concerted support of the voters at the polls tomorrow.

FARMERS IN BOND PLEA

Caravan Tours County Today In Interests Of Water Issue

One hundred carloads of farmers from all parts of Orange county today made a direct appeal to voters to pass the $6,620,000 water conservation and flood control bonds tomorrow.

Led by H. Clay Kellogg as marshal and George Kellogg as speaker, the caravan made a tour of the entire county, starting with Santa Ana at 1 o'clock, and continuing through all municipalities in the county.

Stops were to be made in each community, and the farmers' message given by loudspeaker.

The action of the farmers is entirely voluntary. President L. A. Bortz of the farm bureau said this morning, "No one is being paid for his work, and we are in this thing to demonstrate what we think the need for water is, and to express our confidence in our supervisors in choosing this method of obtaining it."

The entire group met at noon at the farm bureau offices for lunch, where they were addressed by workers in the fight, and given last-minute instructions for the one-day campaign. Start of the trip was made from Seventh and Bush streets.

RULER DIES IN VENEZUELA

CARACAS, Venezuela, Dec. 18. (AP)—Gen. Juan Vicente Gomez, 78, president of Venezuela and the nation's dictator for more than a quarter of a century, died at 11:45 p. m. yesterday.

The national cabinet immediately made Gen. Eleazar Lopez Contreras, minister of war, provisional president.

Gomez, born in 1857 of humble origin, rose to power in an amazing career.

He achieved his power by revolution, overthrowing Cipriano Castro in 1908, and thereafter retained his place with a strong hand, defeating dozens of other revolutions directed against him.

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 18. (AP)—The condition of Jesse Livermore, Jr., wounded son of the stock market speculator, remained critical today. The 16-year-old youth, reportedly shot by his mother Nov. 29, was still under an oxygen tent, where he was placed after pneumonia developed Monday.

COUNTY WILL DECIDE HUGE PROJECT

$6,620,000 Bond Issue Goes Before Citizens; Federal Fund Ready

Orange county goes to the polls tomorrow to decide what has been termed the most important issue in the history of the county, that of the $13,000,000 plan to secure water.

A bitter campaign on the question of the $6,620,000 bond issue proposed water conservation and flood control project for the county was climaxed today with last-minute efforts of opponents and proponents of the issue to rally their forces.

Both Predict Victory
Both sides freely predict victory at the polls.

Both sides will make every effort to register the largest vote in years tomorrow. Cars will be available in every township and every precinct in the county, to carry voters to the polls.

The question revolves about the construction of an 11-unit project, consisting of eight earth dams with flood channels and prepared spreading grounds, for the purpose of conserving water and preventing flood damage.

JURY ACQUITS DE BRITTON

Deliberating only 40 minutes, a jury in Justice of the Peace K. E. Morrison's court last yesterday acquitted R. Y. DeBritton, proprietor of the Empire Market, of charges of violating the state unfair practices act. Mr. DeBritton specifically was charged with selling foodstuffs below cost. The jury was given the case at 3:30 p. m.

A complaint charging violation of one count of the act was filed against Mr. DeBritton August 22, the case being tried Sept. 4 and resulting in a hung jury. A second complaint, charging three violations of the act, was filed Sept. 23. Trial of the case was delayed until this week. Mr. DeBritton was represented by Attorney Franklin West, while James Walker of the district attorney's office was the prosecutor.

Who'll Win This Umbrella? Just Guess Date and Hour of First Two-Inch Rain Here

How good are you at forecasting weather? When do you think Santa Ana will get its next big rain?

If you think you know, here's your chance to cash in on your ability. The Journal will give to the man, woman or child in Orange county who guesses nearest to the day and hour on which our next two-inch rain will start, a new umbrella so he won't get wet.

You all know how long it's been since we've had a really big rainfall. When do you think we'll get our next? With all the talk that's going around these days of floods, and water, and wet and dry years, this is your chance to settle the whole question the way you want it settled, and get a new umbrella in the bargain. Send your guesses to The Journal Rain Editor, or bring them to The Journal office, 117 East Fifth street.

Official weather figures as released by the Santa Ana Junior college will be accepted in judging entries. Winners will be announced immediately following the first two-inch fall this season.

Townsend Plan Advocate Wins Congressional Seat By 2-1 Margin in Michigan

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Dec. 18. (AP)—Verner W. Main, 49-year-old Battle Creek attorney and staunch advocate of the Townsend old age pension plan, became Michigan's third district representative in congress today, after winning a special election as decisively as he carried off the nomination in a Republican primary.

Despite Main's assertion of Republican party regularity, leaders of Dr. F. E. Townsend's organization hailed his election as "the people's expression" in the first test of the plan as a political issue east of the Mississippi.

Main, a "dark horse" winner in the primary, defeated his Democratic opponent, Howard W. Cavanagh, in the election Tuesday by a 2-to-1 majority. E. G. Kiefer, Farmer-Laborite, polled only 397 votes. Main's vote was 24,686 and Cavanagh's 11,342.

"The Townsend clubs endorsed my candidacy after it was under way, but I entered the race at the urging of disinterested friends, as the candidate of no group or factions," Mr. Main said last night.

Floyd R. Moody, district manager of the Townsend organization and active in the campaign, said, "I believe it is the people's expression on the Townsend plan in no uncertain terms."

James Irvine, Orange county rancher and principal opponent of the county flood and water conservation program, today issued a statement in which he answered assertions made Monday night by George A. Kellogg in a debate at Laguna Beach that Mr. Irvine was planning to build a canal from the Santa Ana river to feed a proposed Irvine reservoir near Newport Beach. Mr. Kellogg was quoting a report by State Engineer Edward Hyatt. Mr. Irvine's statement follows:

"I note that Mr. George A. MEXICO ASKS CALLES TO LEAVE

FASCIST PLOT CHARGED BY OFFICIALS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 18. (AP)—The federal chamber of deputies voted last night to appeal to former President Plutarco Elias Calles to leave the country "because his presence is a motive for unrest and disorders."

(A government censorship apparently prevented the sending out of this information last night.)

Several deputies charged Calles was planning a revolution and was plotting to implant a Fascist regime in Mexico.

FIFTH PRO-CALLES GOVERNOR OUSTED

McALLEN, Tex., Dec. 18. (AP)—The McAllen Monitor says today that Eleuterio Parra, governor of the state of Nayarit and political friend of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, became the fifth governor to be ousted by President Cardenas in his move to suppress a rallying of Calles forces.

WATER FIGHT IS TAKEN TO GRAND JURY

Charles Havens of Garden Grove, militant opponent of the county water program, carried his campaign before the grand jury today. Mr. Havens told the jurors he objects to inclusion of funds for increasing the size of the Santiago dam. He also suggested that the water problem can be solved much more simply than by building a dam on the Santa Ana river.

The method suggested by Mr. Havens was to drill deep holes in the river bed where, he said, flood waters would sink into the underground strata. Yesterday Mr. Havens appeared before the board of supervisors and advocated the same scheme. He asked the board to call off tomorrow's water bond election.

gram in 1929 when the cost was $16,000,000, if he is now opposing the Elliott program on the ground of tax reduction when the cost to taxpayers is only $6,620,000?

Mr. Burke criticized the board of supervisors severely, and said he believed they favor their friends in contracts. He scored the board for huddling behind closed doors. Mr. McFadden said that Mr. Burke, by innuendo and suggestion, had questioned the honesty of the board of supervisors. He then recalled that Mr. Burke asserted he would support the present program if the bond issue were cut down.

Charges Insincerity

"I didn't expect my opponent to admit he was insincere," said Mr. McFadden. "If I felt the way he does about the board of supervisors, I wouldn't support even a $100,000 bond issue. If you people believed as he does about the board of supervisors, you would not support a bond issue in any amount."

"And yet Mr. Burke says if this bond issue were cut down $1,750,000 he would support it and turn all that bond money over to the supervisors. Is that sincerity? It's just a forensic trick. I don't believe he really means it."

Mr. Burke, with his oratory, won burst after burst of applause. When Mr. McFadden began turning his opponent's forensics inside out so the audience could see how they worked, he won applause just as vociferous.

Issue Not Recall

"He would wreck this county for lack of water simply because he doesn't like the board of supervisors," said Mr. McFadden. "This is a water issue, not a recall of supervisors. I believe his antagonism to the supervisors began a number of years ago when publication of the delinquent tax list was taken away from the Register and passed out among other papers."

"Mr. Burke doesn't like the way the county is run. He never did like the way the county is run. He never will like the way the county is run until J. Frank Burke runs it."

Mr. McFadden emphasized his last shaft with a blow of his fist on the rostrum. The audience laughed outright and applauded.

"There is an urge in him to seek popularity and he knows anyone can be popular if he fights taxes." Early in his address Mr. McFadden recalled the Irvine company advertisement in 1929 in which Mr. Irvine pledged to support the Prado dam, and asked why Mr. Irvine changed his mind. "Now in these days when untrue as everyone familiar with the situation must know.

"The plans for a dam in the upper bay have been approved. The only suggestion which has been discussed has been the taking of storm water from the streets and roofs of Santa Ana and the flood run-off from my ranch into this reservoir. Incidentally there are damage suits now threatened against Santa Ana, if this storm water is not taken care of, and the officials of the City of Santa Ana have requested that it be participated in by the Irvine Company. This would be helping Santa Ana and injurious to no one."

"Such a channel would begin at Flower and Delhi streets, a very long ways from the point where Brother Kellogg imagined it to be, and nowhere near the Santa Ana river."

"I may also mention another thing—namely, that I have not repudiated my promise to support the dam at the upper Prado site. I am as much in favor of that project as ever, but I never promised to support a dam and reservoir two and one-half times too large and thereby causing a heavy and unnecessary burden on the taxpayers."

treasures are scraps of paper you may expect people to change their minds. They fought the dam in 1929 because it was at the lower site. They said, 'Put it at the upper site and we pledge our word of honor that we will support it.' "I should think common honesty would compel him to explain to the voters why he changed his mind."

"Turned Down Cold"

In replying, Mr. Burke admitted that Mr. Irvine did promise to support the Prado dam. In explaining the change of mind he referred to the fact that Mr. Irvine's modified plan "was turned down cold."

"Also, in the past six years, there have been many changes," said Mr. Burke. "Santa Ana and Fullerton are now in the Metropolitan water district. And furthermore, why was this present program loaded with all these other projects? It was because they believed they could shove this thing over in spite of our requests."

"I believe Mr. McFadden will say a promise against the public interest is wrong. And I don't care what Mr. Irvine says about it. I believe he made a promise against the public interest. But to impute wrong motives to a man simply because he wants to save the taxpayers money is unfair," Mr. Burke was applauded.

Calls For Explanation

"I did not impute wrong motives to Mr. Irvine," said Mr. McFadden. "I believed that promise was profound and so insincere that Mr. Irvine himself and not Mr. Burke should explain his reasons for changing his mind. Mr. Irvine might have different reasons for changing his mind than those advanced by Mr. Burke. We know why Mr. Burke changed his mind. It was because the supervisors held a huddle."

In the early part of his talk Mr. McFadden said: "Mr. Burke takes pride in the fact that he supported the bonds in 1929. I'm sorry he has changed his mind. In an editorial in 1929 he said there was only one issue, and that was water. Why, in 1929, did he favor a $16,000,000 bond issue and not favor the bond issue now? Why was the issue water then and not the issue now? Taxes were not the issue then, with a $16,000,000 program. Why are they the issue now, with a $6,620,000 program? Why was a dam such a wonderful thing then, at $16,000,000, and such a terrible thing now at $6,620,000?"

"Dead Wrong Now"

"Mr. Burke was right in 1929; but he's dead wrong now."

"Mr. Burke says he doesn't owe Mr. Irvine anything. Maybe that's so. But I do believe, Mr. Burke, you owe Mr. Irvine a debt of gratitude."

Mr. Burke explained his support of the bonds in 1929 by saying, "I was terribly excited about the campaign. And because of the campaign I believed that if we didn't vote the bonds we would dry up and blow away in a year or so. But I was deceived in that campaign and I made up my mind another time to look into the facts for myself. I haven't changed my mind on water but I can't be forced to support any program they want to present, just because of the need."

Raps Circular

Mr. Burke became indignant about a circular criticizing Mr. Irvine, which was distributed yesterday.

"I say to you that circular is indecent. If a group made such an assault on a rich man I should think the chamber of commerce would want to put those men in jail."

Mr. Burke won applause here. "I am thankful there was someone six years ago who had the means to prevent a blanket mortgage on the county of $16,000,000. In Santa Ana we have $8,000,000 in obligations right now. Our assessed valuation is only about $20,000,000."

Back to Board

"The total county obligation is $19,000,000. This bond issue, with interest, will bring the total up to about $30,000,000. When I see taxes mounting I say I have a right to insist that the supervisors put the lowest and not the highest amount in the bond issue."

"The people know no more about what goes on in there than a hog knows about a holiday," he bile in a garage she shared with West.

Thus, basing their reasoning on West's statement, police had evolved the theory that the actress had had gone to the garage to spend the night in her car. Feeling the cold, they reasoned, she had turned on the motor to warm up the garage.

Died of Poison

An autopsy previously determined without a doubt that Miss Todd died of carbon monoxide poison. Her blood stream contained 80 per cent of the poison, according to the finding of County Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagner, and her brain contained .013 of 1 per cent alcohol.

H. H. Cooper, garage man who has been caring for Miss Todd's car, said the big engine under the shiny hood emitted carbon monoxide gas at a rapid rate and that it would have taken but a few minutes of fairly rapid running for the motor to turn most of the oxygen in the closed garage into carbon monoxide, thus causing the star's death and later causing the motor to stop for lack of oxygen. Coroner's experts agreed with this.

Mystery Phone Call

Still unexplained as the coroner's inquest progressed was the mysterious telephone call which Mrs. Wallace Ford, wife of the screen actor, received about 4:30 Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Ford maintains it was Miss Todd who called, telling her that she would be "right over" to Mrs. Ford's cocktail party and was bringing someone with her that would "surprise you so you'll drop dead." Yet police have placed the time of her death at about 6:30 Sunday morning.

West told police yesterday that about 4:30 Sunday morning he believed he had heard water running in the bathroom and that he thought Miss Todd had returned and had slept in the ladies' lounge of the cafe the two operated on the Coast highway north of Santa Monica.

With this evidence in mind, observers pointed out that Miss Todd might have returned, entered her apartment with the key provided by her maid, later made the "mystery" phone call to Mrs. Ford and started for the party. Coroner's officials said it was probable Miss Todd had consumed enough alcohol to make her weak, that she might have slipped at the wheel of her car as she started the motor. Her nose was bleeding and a new false front tooth was loosened when the body was found. Police pointed out that these injuries probably were sustained as she fell forward onto the steering wheel.

"Can you account for the fact she was in the garage?" Nance asked Mrs. Whitehead.

"No," said the maid.

"Do you know of any reason why she couldn't have gotten into the apartment?"

"I gave her a key to the side door which she kept in a coin purse," was the reply.

Jury Determined

George Rochester, foreman of the county grand jury, previously had demanded that an analysis be made of Miss Todd's stomach to determine if poison was present.

Mr. Rochester said that the grand jury would "leave no stone unturned" to fix the cause of the death.

The eleventh-hour statement of Miss Todd's chauffeur, Ernest O. Peters, that she feared gangsters created a tense atmosphere for the opening of the inquest.

Conflicting Stories

Seven men composed the coroner's jury impanelled to hear the stories of Miss Todd's last hours—some of which have been conflicting.

declared. "I believe the supervisors are honest, but I believe they favor their friends in contracts. They don't get it themselves but their friends get it in contracts."

Faith In U. S. Aid

He quoted a letter by a Mr. Hatfield which said that two women working for the bonds had admitted they were paid by the Portland Cement association.

Mr. Burke scouted the idea that federal money will no longer be available to match the bonds after Thursday unless the election carries.

"When Washington learns the people of Orange county refuse to be hornswoggled, they will have more faith in Orange county than ever before."

Mr. Burke criticized employment of a Los Angeles advertising agency to work in the campaign and asked why Los Angeles is so interested in Orange county's bond issue. He said this reminded him of an Englishman who said, "I will win the war if it takes every Frenchman we've got."

"Debt Is Not Wealth"

The speaker ridiculed the assertion that construction of the water project will add to the wealth of the county.

"I have found to my sorrow that debt is not wealth," he said.

W. H. Spurgeon, jr., chairman of the citizens' committee supporting the water program, presided at the debate.

Following the debate F. C. Finkle, San Bernardino engineer, who worked with C. Roy Brown, Irvine company engineer, in developing the modified plan, spoke on technical features of the program from the opposition standpoint. Thomas Means, of the county's board of consulting engineers, presented his view of the situation.

Here Is The Reason Why James Irvine Opposes Our Flood Control Bonds

Of course James Irvine doesn't want a dam site on the Santa Ana river. He wants the water to flow through a canal starting near the 5th St. bridge on the Santa Ana river and leading to the dam near the head of Newport Bay which he has already had approved by the State engineers.

Here is the proof:

Santa Ana River Investigation By State Of California (Bulletin No. 19)

Irvine Reservoir Site—

IRVINE RESERVOIR SITE:—This site is located, within 50 feet of sea level, three miles east of the city of Newport. It is estimated for a height of dam of 40 feet, a storage capacity of 16,800 acre-feet, and a cost of $242,000. This is a cost per acre-foot of storage capacity of $15. The formation at the dam site is clay, and calls for an earth dam. The tributary drainage area is not subject to excessive flood discharge, and no special provision need be made for spillways. This reservoir would be filled by a flood canal from the Santa Ana River which would start from a point near the city of Santa Ana, would have a length of 5 miles, and would be of capacity to accommodate 5000 second-feet. The utility of this reservoir would be over-year storage of the Santa Ana River at its lowest point, practically below all useful diversions, and at a point where the water would otherwise flow into the ocean.

ALARMS STIR COURTHOUSE

Treasurer Tests System

County Treasurer T. E. Stephenson is leaving no stones unturned to give the public efficient service. Mr. Stephenson was appointed to his present position several weeks ago and has been busy ever since learning all the ins and outs of the office.

Until Monday he had not had time to investigate the operation of the burglar alarm system. Late Monday evening there was a mild ringing of bells at the courthouse. All about the building people stuck their heads out of windows to see the burglar chase. The bells kept ringing.

But no officers arrived. One bell kept ringing longer than the others. Finally it stopped. Afterward Mr. Stephenson said that he had tipped off the sheriff's office and highway patrol office that he was only testing the bells. The one that kept ringing got stuck somehow, and he had some difficulty in getting it to stop.

The courthouse settled down to a normal routine again.

CAREWE FILM TO BE SHOWN

The Edwin Carewe production, "Are We Civilized?" starring William Farnum and Anita Louise, will be presented at the First Presbyterian church here at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

This film drama is a scathing, yet entertaining, indictment of war and intolerance. Based on the theme that ignorance, superstition, greed and intolerance have been the greatest enemies of civilization throughout the ages, it shows how mankind defeats these forces through freedom of speech and freedom of press. Raising the curtain on the past, and revealing the present, in the light of the current world crisis and the threats of world-wide war, the Carewe picture delivers a blow to the forces of greed and conquest.

At the same time, the picture is brilliant entertainment, screened in a background of splendor and magnificence, with a love story running through the action to a climactic finish. No admission will be charged.

APPROVAL IS GIVEN FIVE WPA JOBS

Five new Works Progress administration projects in Orange county, calling for an expenditure of $64,893.28, Tuesday were given approval by President Roosevelt, County WPA Director Dan Mulherson announced.

The projects are for the construction of drainage ditches in Talbert, to cost $8854 and employ 40 men; for construction and landscaping work at the Orange Union High school, to cost $9718 and employ 17 men; to study and grade vocabulary difficulties in primary grade school books, in Brea, to cost $2280 and employ three clerks.

To level sites, grade roads, landscape and improve the Harbor Park, at the south end of upper Newport Bay, at a cost of $22,478.28, to employ 37 men; to install additional storm drains on Seventeenth street in Santa Ana, at a total cost of $18,563 and employ 63 men.

Work on the projects will get under way as soon as allocation of funds is made, which is expected by Mr. Mulherson within two weeks.

Well, Well!

Fuel for Ripley
Our own little "Well, Well!" department, or things we didn't know:
That horseshoe pitching is about 3000 years old. Sure, old Roman and Greek soldiers got much exercise tossing the iron foot covering. At first they worked only for distance but later they put up a stake and gradually developed the game of quoits much as it is today.

That there's a sport called "hurling." It's an Irish game, played with a ball and a stick curved something like a hockey club. The great trick is to learn how to catch the ball on the blade and then pitch it toward an enemy goal. The story is told that Cu Chulainn, a mighty man in the annals of Ireland, was so perfect a player, and so remarkable in his ability to juggle a ball on a none-too-flat blade, that he carried it nine miles without dropping it!

That lacrosse—not baseball—is the oldest game on the North American continent. It was called baggataway by the Canadian Indians, who originated it centuries ago.

That the average annual attendance at baseball games in these United States is 83,000,000 persons. Basketball, 5,000,000; boxing about 6,000,000; hockey, 5,000,000 horse racing, 10,000,000 to 11,000,000; football, between 12,000,000 and 14,000,000.

That the attendance record for football is not held by United States but by Scotland. They call it soccer there, but they got 126,047 persons to put cash on the line to see a match between teams representing England and Scotland at Glasgow, April 1, 1933.

That Tom Greenhill, Lismore, Australia, punched a punching bag 72 hours and 10 minutes without stopping. He averaged 45 blows per minute.

That (this for China Clipper fans) the Clipper ship record in water is held by the old American Clipper Red Jacket (2000 tons, length 260 feet) which crossed the Atlantic from Sandy Hook, N. Y., to Liverpool, England, in 13 days.

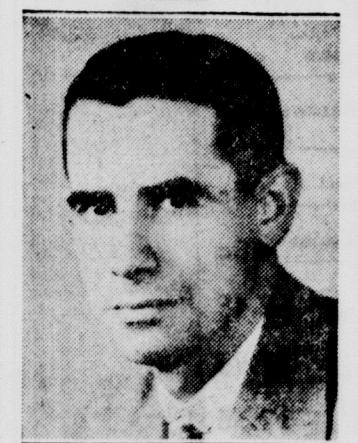

That—someone send this to Ripley, please—Mikhail Gornush and Wassy Bezborodny of Kiev, Russia, slapped each other's face for 36 hours and the contest, in which the first man to ask a halt was to be loser, had to be called a draw. Proof on request.

That the record for backward leaping as though anyone cared, is 12 ft., 11 in.—one leap, mind you!

That Gus Simmons, Chicago, an entry in an ice-sitting contest, was disqualified because he was running a temperature of 102 after sitting on a cake of ice for 36 hours.

That Bill Robinson, famous Negro tap dancer, holds these records for running backward: 50 yards, 6 secs.; 75 yards, 8-1-5 secs.; 100 yards, 13-1-5 secs.
That human speed seems to know no limit. Witness: Man has run a mile at a rate of 14 miles per hour, walked at nine miles per hour, swum at almost three miles per hour. But the fastest pace at which any human ever traveled through muscular efforts was in 1928 when L. Vanderstuff, riding in Paris, negotiated 76 miles, 503 yards, in one hour on a bicycle pedaled by motorcycles.

NEW. LOWER PRICES ON BIG DODGE

Bob Munro says of the new Dodge: "Already priced only a few dollars more than the very lowest-priced cars. Dodge has recently announced even lower prices... as low as $640, list prices at the factory, Detroit. But the big, new, money-saving Dodge saves you more than on original first cost. From all over the country come reports of amazing gas and oil economy—18 to 24 miles per gallon and savings up to 20% on oil, owners say. More luxuriously appointed than ever before... with stunning new style and beauty, this new Dodge has been hailed by noted auto editors and fashion authorities as the most beautiful car in all Dodge history. See and drive this big, new Dodge 'Beauty Winner' without delay. See the free economy test. Find out for yourself how Dodge can save you money every mile you drive." (Adv.)

Trojans Sail Thursday

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Southern California's football players put three days of rest behind today as they settled down to train for their two games in Honolulu over the holidays. The Trojan team leaves Thursday afternoon on the S. S. Lurline and will arrive in Honolulu Dec. 24 for its game with the University of Hawaii on Christmas.

EXPERTS PICK CHAMPIONS IN POLL

Minnesota's Unbeaten Football Eleven Is Given Second Spot

(Note: This is one of a series of detailed results of the annual Associated Press Sports Poll.)

By ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The No. 1 team achievement of the year in any sport was turned in by the Detroit Tigers, world champions of baseball, in the estimation of the country's sports experts.

Against competition in the voting offered principally by three unbeaten college football teams, the Tigers registered as decisive a triumph in the fifth annual Associated Press Sports Poll as they did in capturing the American pennant for the second time and then turning back the Chicago Cubs in the world series.

The Tigers topped the team poll with 209 points. Minnesota's unbeaten football team, runner-up in the polls for the second straight year, enjoyed the distinction of posting a clear margin over rivals for national gridiron honors.

The popularity of the Tigers marked the fourth straight year in which the world baseball champions have been voted the top team of the year. Southern California's 1931 football team won recognition in the first Associated Press roundup. Since then the New York Yankees, New York Giants, St. Louis Cardinals and Tigers have landed first honors.

Minnesota's footballers were closer to the top last year than this. The Gophers trailed the Cardinals in the 1934 poll by only 26 points. This year the margin separating them from the Tigers was 47 points. In the first place votes, the Tigers led, 46 to 29.

The tabulation of the poll on outstanding teams of 1935, showing results follows:

Team-Sport	Points
1-Detroit Tigers, baseball	209
2-Minnesota, football	162
3-Southern Methodist, football	64
4-Princeton, football	41
5-Chicago Cubs, baseball	25
6-British Davis Cup, tennis	11
7-Southern California, football	10
8-Southern California, track and field	8
9-Detroit Lions, pro football	5
10-University of California, rowing	6
11-United States Ryder Cup, pro golf	5

Three points each for the following: U. S. Wightman cup team, women's tennis; Montreal Maroons, professional hockey; Oklahoma A. & M. college wrestling; Edmonton Grads, girls' basketball; New York Glens, pro football; Alabama, Rose Bowl football champions.

One point each for the following: New York university, basketball; University of Michigan, swimming; Jeffersonville (Ind.) High school, basketball; Kansas City State Liners, basketball; Japanese professional golf team; United States swimming team which invaded Japan; British amateur boxing team, which beat New York Golden Gloves.

HOSTAK BEATS BABY GANS

SEATTLE, Dec. 18. (AP)—Because of a state boxing rule which prohibits tossing a towel in the ring, Al Hostak, promising Seattle middleweight, gained only a decision instead of a technical knockout victory over Baby Joe Gans, veteran Los Angeles Negro.

In their eight-round battle here last night, Hostak battered Gans to the canvas five times in the first two rounds, the bell saving the Negro after the fifth smash. His manager tried to save the boxer by throwing in the towel, but the referee kicked it out of the ring and kept the battle going.

Parade of Eight Unbeaten Teams Mustangs, Gophers, Tigers Lead

By PAUL MICKELSON

CHICAGO, Dec. 18. (AP)—Over a transcontinental trail littered with upsets that left millions of excited fans with pleasurable jitters, football rode through one of its most thrilling-packed campaigns in 1935, with Minnesota, Princeton and Southern Methodist's Mustangs at the head of the collegiate parade.

Hundreds of teams, fired by perhaps the largest crop of sophomore stars in a decade, started out with high hopes of a perfect campaign, but when the football was over only eight had reached their goal. Of them all, only Minnesota's powerful horde was undefeated for the second straight year.

Joining the "big three" within the ranks of the undefeated and untied were these universities and colleges of the Midwest, East and Southwest: Alma, Ohio University, Middle Tennessee Teachers, Spearfish (S. D.) Normal and Nassau Collegiate Center of Garden City, N. Y. None of them, however, disputed the national mythical title claims of Princeton, Minnesota and Southern Methodist. The latter drew the nomination for Rose Bowl duty against Stanford, whose record was blighted only by a one-point loss to University of California, Los Angeles.

Attendance Shows Increase
As far back as last New Year's day, when Alabama crushed Stanford, 29 to 13, before a record Rose Bowl throng of 85,400, football began its drive back toward the peak of the boom days.

Altogether, attendance showed an approximate increase of 10 per cent over 1934. Notre Dame, represented by its strongest team since the Rockne era, showed the way by drawing 483,108 at nine games. The largest gains were registered in the East where the game came back on the tide of stronger teams. Back-tracking through the season, we find these highlights:

A great sophomore crop, which promises to send the game on a dizzy, more exciting whirl than ever next year.

Notre Dame's comeback and its unforgettable fourth-quarter drive that toppled Ohio State.

The Ted Key mystery that sent the dean of U. C. L. A. on a 1000-mile investigation trip.

Gov. Martin Luther Davey's attack on the Ohio State team, half of which, he charged, was on the state payroll.

Quarterback "Kayo" Lam, Colorado's "jackrabbit," who set a new national record by gaining 1043 yards from scrimmage in nine games; the performances of Chicago's all-America Jay Berwanger; Southern Methodist's mighty atom, all-America Bobby Wilson.

College Proxies Attack Game
The "Wisconsin Rebellion" in which it was charged by the team captain that Athletic Director Walter Meanywell started a petition among football players to oust the stormy coach, Dr. Clarence W. Spears.

Increased gambling on football results.

The two Florida college presidents, Dr. John J. Tigert of the University of Florida and Dr. Ludd M. Spivey of Southern College, who attacked the game and systems of the bigger institutions.

Charley Paddock's attack on Coach Howard Jones of Southern California.

Hal Randaour of Pittsburgh, who picked up 600 yards without scoring one touchdown.

Upsets, probably topped by Wisconsin's victory over Purdue.

Azucar, winner of the inaugural race; Ladyman, Head Play, Time Supply, Top Row, First Minstrel, The Whopper, Rosemont and Sun Portland.

Azucar won the Santa Anita handicap with 117 pounds in the hot, last February and undoubtedly will be asked to carry much more. Ladyman, in finishing second, carried 120; Time Supply, which was third, packed 117, and Top Row, one of the best runners of the summer season, 109.

W. C. TUTTLE ELECTED NEW COAST LEAGUE PRESIDENT

OAKLAND, Dec. 18. (AP)—Will C. Tuttle, Encino, a former Spokane newspaperman who made good writing Western stories, is the new president of the Pacific Coast baseball league, elected unanimously to succeed H. L. Baggerly, who resigned after the 1935 season.

The new president, chosen here yesterday at a meeting of the league directors, will hold office for one year at a salary to be fixed later. He takes office immediately.

Tuttle was sponsored by the Hollywood and Los Angeles clubs, although he has had no experience in professional baseball. He has been connected with semi-pro organizations in his home district for years.

Before 4000 persons at the Olympic auditorium last night the 174-pound Akron, O., boxer sent Ketchel spinning to the canvas for a two-round knockout. Coates appeared to have difficulty solving his opponent's unorthodox style in the first but wasted no time in taking advantage of the first opportunity in the second.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18. (AP)—Charles Coates, another Negro with a knockout punch in either fist, has added the name of Wesley Ketchel, once known as the Astoria, Ore., "Assassin," to his list.

The Golden Bears, runners-up in the Pacific Coast conference, southern division, last year, meet the New York University five in the feature contest of a double-header.

COMPTON TEST AWAITS DONS

Following a rough-and-tumble scrimmage with the Woolen Mills of the Commercial league last night, Coach Al Rebol's Santa Ana Junior collegians tapered off today for their non-conference basketball test with Compton, outlawed member of the Western jays division. The Dons and Tartars meet in Andrews gymnasium at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

CHURCH LOOP CAGERS MIX IN CRUCIAL

Shell Oil Quintet Now Looms As Commercial League Contender

Challenging the Mormons' right to a clean sweep of championship honors, the United Presbyterianians are determined to score a major upset over the Latter Day Saints on the "Y" court at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

The survivor of the standout clash probably will top Community Church league standings when the books are closed Jan. 16. The Latter Day Saints (Mormons), win or lose tonight, are assured a place in the play-offs, since Capt. Bernard (Bus) Snow's cagers captured the first-half flag.

Distributing their points among seven teammates, the Christian Missionary Alliance players easily trampled United Brethren, 21 to 5, last night.

The lineups:
Shell Oil (33) Pos. (22) Garlock's LeGakes (12) F. (12) Denio LeGakes (7) F. (12) Denio LeGakes (8) C. (2) Garlock Reynolds (6) G. S. Beall Ayala (6) D. Beall

WOOLEN MILLS AND MESSANS COLLIDE

Weakened by the absence of two regulars, Wayne Garlock's cagers were no match for the new titular threats, M. M. (Buster) Devine's Shell Oilers, in County Commercial league basketball competition at the Y. M. C. A. last night. The Oilers won, 33-22, scoring their second upset in as many weeks. Costa Mesa was the first victim, 33-16.

Red-headed Bob Blanchard, center, was unable to play with an infected foot. Forward Asa Herren failed to show. As a result, Garlock's quintet was disorganized—even more so than when the captain of the county champs lost two of his regulars, Ed Eastman and Sam Lockhart, to the high school squad last week.

Garlock called upon the three Beal brothers—Solon, Mac and Dave—to play most of the game last night.

The newly-improved Oilers might have won despite Garlock's misfortune, for in the first half everything they tossed at the bucket went in. They led at the intermission, 25-9. Garlock's five dominated the second half, 13-8. Charley Denio of Garlock's and Pete LeGakes of Shell were high with 12 points apiece. LeGakes was only one of the stars on a team comprised of former San Juan Capistrano high school players.

Woolen Mills will play Costa Mesa at 7:30 tonight.

Huntington Beach Scene of Battles

By PAUL WRIGHT
Huntington Beach's seventh renewal of its popular Southern Counties Invitational, annually the district's acme of basketball entertainment, comes tomorrow afternoon.

Santa Ana of the Coast Preparatory league, Fullerton of the Foothill loop, and all 10 members of the Orange league are among the 24 high schools enrolled. The others are Redondo Beach, Compton, Pasadena Muir-Tech, Excelsior, Chaffey, Leuzinger of Inglewood, Downey, Jorian, Corona, Chino, Bonita and Claremont.

Three Classifications
Competition, continuing through Saturday night, will be sponsored in three divisions—major, intermediate and minor—with eight schools in each classification.

All-star teams will be selected by tournament officials, headed by Coach Harry (Cap) Sheue of Huntington Beach, in each division, and individual trophies—15 of them—will be awarded. Larger trophies will be presented to the three championship schools.

Long Beach, having applied after entries were completed, will not defend its major division title. Santa Ana has a good chance to win. Reece Greene's preps, however, draw dynamite in the first round when they go up against Redondo Beach's Seahawks, who hold a 24-23 upset over Long Beach's formidable Jackrabbits.

Huntington Beach and Tustin will strive to defend their respective championships of the intermediate and minor divisions.

Captained by Ed Miller, star forward, who carries the burden with the two other lettermen, Lester Evans and Carl Swenson—Fullerton's Indians of the Foothill loop will appear in the tournament's major division inaugural against Compton of the Bay league at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow. Tustin and San Juan Capistrano of the minor class meet in the first game at 7:30. Newport Harbor and Inglewood's Leuzinger come on at 8:30.

Santa Ana and Redondo will appear in the nightcap of a three-game program tomorrow evening. Chino and Laguna Beach play at 6:30, Orange and Downey at 7:30, Santa Ana and Redondo Beach at 8:30.

Anaheim vs. Chaffey
Friday's games pair Pasadena Muir-Tech with Excelsior of the major division at 4:30 p. m.; Anaheim with Chaffey of the majors at 8:30 p. m.; Garden Grove with Jordon of the intermediates at 3:30 p. m.; Corona with Huntington Beach of the intermediates at 7:30 p. m.; Valencia with Claremont of the minors at 2:30 p. m., and Brea-Olinda with Bonita of the minors at 6:30 p. m.

Tickets good for the entire tournament will be on sale at the Huntington Beach gymnasium for 75 cents. Adult tickets good for each daily session of three games will be available at 25 cents. School children will be admitted for 15 cents. Director Sheue announced.

GRID RULERS TO MEET

GRAND JURY DUE TO RESUME NEWPORT ELECTION QUIZ MONDAY

ATTORNEY IS SCHEDULED FOR CALL

Man Who Put Up Funds For Probe Indicates He's Disappointed

The grand jury is scheduled to continue its probe of matters connected with the asserted 1934 election frauds at Newport Beach next Monday.

Edgar L. Martin, Los Angeles attorney who was active in the investigation of the alleged frauds after the election, is slated to appear before the grand jury that day.

Andrew Lennox, aged Newport Beach man, told the grand jury several days ago that he became intoxicated and gave Mr. Martin $500 to carry on the investigation. Now he would like to have his money back.

Lennox Disappointed

Mr. Martin was in the hall outside the grand jury room on Monday but was not called inside. Mr. Lennox also was there and is reported to have gone before the jury in the afternoon. He has indicated that he was disappointed with the results of the election fraud controversy.

At the time of the investigation Mr. Martin sent letters to newspapers, and general reports told of election officials being involved in the asserted irregularities. It was said that persons who were not registered were allowed to vote, and that polls were reopened after closing time to allow late comers to cast ballots.

One Man Jailed
After the investigation by Mr.

"It's Clancy!" yells Puff. "Fancy seeing YOU here. It's late and it's cold, but you fill me with cheer." Says Clancy, "Tis sure you're a great one to rove—Let's go in the station and sit by the stove."

Martin and the district attorney's office the grand jury did not file charges against any of the officials. An indictment was returned against Rupert F. Jones, who was accused of forging the name of James R. Jones to the roster at the election of April 9, 1934. He was convicted, was granted probation, but was sentenced to three months in the county jail.

Mr. Jones explained that he had moved but that a friend told him he could still vote in his old precinct. He said that on the roster he found the name James R. Jones and was told to sign just as the name was written. He said he did not intend to commit any crime and acted through misunderstanding. James R. Jones, who is about 80 years of age, was at that time confined to his home by illness.

AWARD PLANE CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (AP)—The war department announced the award of a contract for 100 attack planes involving $2,065,074, to the Northrop Corporation, Inglewood, Calif.

LABOR COSTS FOR FLOOD JOB SET

Proposed labor costs for the proposed Orange county flood control project were figured at an average of 70 cents per hour. It was announced today by Murray N. Thompson, flood control engineer. Army engineers, when they reviewed the project, arrived at an average figure of 71 cents, Mr. Thompson said.

The job was figured as any contractor would work on it in preparation of a bid. Mr. Thompson said. Army engineers raised the figure slightly as a result of their change in plans, which increased costs by providing for a greater yardage of material in the dam.

Figures on the moving of the Santa Fe railroad line through the proposed Prado dam site also were given by Mr. Thompson. The amount being $610,000 for five and three-quarters miles of line. Railroad engineers allowed a reduction in the actual cost, he said, on the basis of operating savings possible by shortening the line in moving it. The figures on the track moving were furnished to the consulting board of engineers by Santa Fe engineers, and were checked and approved by the consultants, Mr. Thompson said.

CITY REFUND ON GAS TAX $6077

Santa Ana's share of the quarter cent state gasoline tax collected during October is $6077.72, according to a report filed with the city council Monday night by C. H. Purcell, state highway engineer. The money is to be used on streets and highways of major importance.

Other allocations of the tax money to cities in Orange county were as follows: Anaheim, $2,207.44; Brea, $488.07; Fullerton, $2176.77; Huntington Beach, $739.07; Laguna Beach, $397.07; La Habra, $455.50; Newport Beach, $441.57; Orange, $1616.74; Placentia, $321.91; San Clemente, $133.69; Seal Beach, $231.71; and Tustin, $185.61.

The city council received an offer from the Walsh-Lindemeyer company, of five acres of property located on the southeast corner of the Edinger and Bristol streets intersection, for use in construction of an armory and parade ground. The company asked $3500 for the site. The matter was referred to the armory committee for consideration.

17 years I'd try to find another job."

Tom Farley. At the mention of that name, Anne retreated to her corner overlooking the Pacific, while memories of the past rushed over her. Lee hadn't told Judge Kellogg of the outcome of his investigation, though she'd heard nothing much from the fishermen. She sensed trouble, rather than knew of it. Farley was unquestionably working with Rob Crocker, and the two wouldn't give up easily.

She went to work the next morning in thoughtful mood. A grey day, a silver grey day, she decided, as they started out on a sea as smooth and shining as an aluminum tray. She watched the world turn from grey to blue as a gentle rain blew up. This would be good for her garden and she wanted it a blaze of colors when John returned.

When John returned. Her days revolved about that thought. On the late drift, after supper was over and the little galley cleaned, she sat outside thinking of him.

Some day they would sit thus, watching net buoys bobbing like scarlet blobs on the water, watching other boats, catching the first glimpse of the Cape light.

And then her reveries were interrupted. George had jumped to his feet and was looking off towards Astoria. "Look at that fool," he shouted to Orvi, pointing to a small cruiser ducking in front of a big freighter, tooting derisively. "He must be drunk."

The boat careened, seemed to sight the "Nikki" idling on her drift, and darted towards them.

TOYS REPAIRED BY V. F. W. ONLY TO BE GIVEN TO NEEDY

Toys that Veterans of Foreign Wars are repairing are not for sale but will be distributed to needy children at Christmas.

This was the statement made by Commander Glenn D. Hendrickson of the Ernest Kellogg post, V. F. W., today to refute a false rumor.

Toys will be accepted until tonight at 111 East Sixth street, Commander Hendrickson said. The men are busy with paints and saws, making old toys like new.

George jumped to the roof of the cabin and began waving and shouting. Orvi turned on the searchlight and directed it toward the buoy lights.

But on the cruiser came. Anne looked at George, he was standing still now, like a statue. Orvi, too, seemed numb; only the men in the nearby gillnetters were sounding sirens, tooting whistles.

The boat cut in between two buoy lights. Stopped.

Orvi, suddenly articulate, as the buoy lights were drenched.

And now to the din was added the sound of cursing aboard the boat.

"He's tangled his propeller in our nets," Orvi wailed, and then he broke into Finnish and Anne, understanding, longed to join him.

A man came out on the tiny deck, reeled drunkenly, then (Please Turn to Page 11, Col. 8)

6TH VICTIM OF ENRAGED MAN DIES

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18. (AP)—The sixth victim of an enraged federal relief worker died today of rifle bullet wounds. He was Harold Johnston, 27. A seventh man wounded by the killer was not seriously hurt.

Four wives have been widowed and six children made fatherless by the deadly aim Monday of Charles N. Layman, 44, former "water boy" on a WPA project who said he planned the shootings because the workers abused and ridiculed him.

Five murder complaints have already been issued against Layman. Layman will be given a preliminary hearing Dec. 23.

Police said Layman had made no change in his first statement that he planned the killings because the workers abused and ridiculed him until he finally left his water-carrying job on the project last Friday.

Do You Want to See 'Jiggs' in Person? He'll Be at Laguna Artists' Ball!

Famous Comics To Be Theme of Frolic

To Welcome New Year In by Throngs at Art Gallery; Prizes

Did you ever see a comic character walking?

Well, you will, if you attend Laguna Beach's sixth annual artists' costume ball New Year's eve in the Laguna Art gallery!

"Frolic of Comics" is the theme for costumes at this year's party, which will begin at 8:30 o'clock and last until next year. Come as your favorite funny-paper character, say the artists.

A midnight supper, surprise and costume prizes and a floor show are planned for the occasion. George K. Brandriff, art association leader, is working with an artist group to plan the party, of which more later.

TAU DELTA PHI HAS SHOWER FOR MEMBER IN HOWELL HOME

Mrs. Allan R. Howell opened her home on Harwood place last evening to Tau Delta Phi members, who feted one of their number, Miss Evelyn Chandler, with a shower of perky red kitchenware.

Miss Chandler recently announced her engagement to Gordon Cudworth of Orange.

A covered-dish dinner preceded the shower. The group planned a Christmas gift exchange and party for Monday evening in the home of Miss Chandler on East Walnut street.

Other guests were Mesdames Forrest E. Bennett, John S. Taylor, Bob Smith and Misses Violet Johnson, Albert Sanford, Nancy Holt, Norma Wilson and Betty Vorce.

GENSLER-LEE

FOURTH AND SYCAMORE—SANTA ANA

Beginner's Success Assured by Easy Marian Martin Frock

PATTERN 9668

Each day more and more beginners are turning out their first house frocks—finding them the best possible investment of time and money—and reveling in the fact they've something to show for a few leisure hours. From the first snip of their shears to sewing on the last button—success is assured simply by following the easy Marian Martin Sew Chart, which guides every new dressmaker to perfect achievement. The frock sketched today is an exceptionally easy one to make—its all-in-one sleeves and yoke a work-saver—its neckline collarless. Belt and patch pocket require but a few minutes time to cut and stitch. And isn't the inverted skirt pleat a roomy one? Choose gingham, or dotted percale. Complete, diagrammed Marian Martin sew chart included.

Pattern 9668 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

The new Marian Martin pattern book will be ready for mailing Dec. 18. Place your order now, and be among the first to receive a copy. It's a practical pattern book that interprets spring's newest fashions in thrifty, easy-to-make clothes for the whole family! Price of book 15 cents. Book and a pattern together, 25 cents.

Send your order to The Santa Ana Journal, Pattern Department, 117 East Fifth street, Santa Ana.

Hosts Named for Comus Party

Hosts were named today for the Christmas dance of Comus club, tomorrow evening in Orange American Legion clubhouse.

They are Mesdames Harry LeBar, John Swanke, Don McDonald and L. N. Sherrard.

Each Comus member is to bring a small gift for the Christmas tree. Dancing will begin at 9:30 o'clock.

MRS. H. L. MILLER TAKES RESERVATIONS FOR EBELL DANCE

Mrs. Herbert L. Miller today requested that reservations for the Ebell young people's dance to be Dec. 27 in Ebell clubhouse be made with her at 4282.

Elaborate plans are being made for the dance, to which hosts of home-from-college young people as well as those living in Santa Ana will throng. Mrs. Miller has the dance tickets.

PIERIAN CLUB TO MEET

Mrs. George Bond, 507 East Myrtle street, will be hostess to the Pierian club Friday at 2 o'clock. A Christmas program will be given.

Bel Canto Has Christmas Party

Bel Canto's "sweet singers" had a festive yuletide party Monday evening in the telephone company clubrooms.

By an odd coincidence, Mrs. Blanche Hackleton and E. M. Waycott, Bel Canto's accompanist and director, won prizes in bunco. Each was given also a present from the club.

Homemade cakes and fir tree-molded ice cream were served. Present were Mesdames E. M. Waycott and R. W. Frankis, Earline Robinson, Phyllis Young, Murva Dressler, Phyllis Hewitt, Della Hryn, Linda Kroeker, Dorothy Pennington, Bessie Wells, Lavonne Wells and Alda Weaver.

WORKING GIRLS FROLIC AT CHRISTMAS FETE

Drawing of the curtains revealed a dining room resplendent with sparkling dinner table arrangements at the meeting of Wrycende Maegden last night in the Y. W. C. A. rooms.

Blue, red and white celophane trees had been put to center the tables. Red tapers lighted the room and at each place were calendars of the year's activities, recently outlined by the executive council.

After a round of Christmas carols led by Lucille Robinson, and a Santa Claus exchange, the group adjourned to rotating tables where "Merry Christmas" was being played. High score went to Miss Rowena Newcomb and the prize for the most artistic Santa to Miss Allen Larr.

Miss Kathleen Blank had been in charge of arrangement and decorations had been planned by Miss Grace Alberts.

GALA TIME SHARED BY MEMBERS OF EBELL TRAVEL GROUP

It was a merry day for members of Ebell second travel section yesterday, for they followed their three-course luncheon in Ebell clubhouse with an exchange of gifts and a Noel program.

Mesdames J. J. Harrison, H. A. Wassum and J. H. Walker planned the decorations for the luncheon table. A centerpiece of Santa Claus in arctic setting was used with gay red tapers' nutcrackers.

In the program hour, Mrs. J. C. Hamill accompanied Mrs. Harry Hayes in singing. Mrs. Mit Phillips also sang. Miss June Biseline played a violin solo. Readings were given by Mrs. C. A. Watkins, Eleanor Young Elliott, Mrs. Theo A. Winbiger, conducted the business session.

ELKS CELEBRATE AT ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PARTY

Attendance at the Elks lodge Christmas party neared the 400 mark last night when Elks and their families gathered for a program and dancing.

Seven acts of vaudeville had been arranged by John Miller as a guest program from Los Angeles. During the dancing, the legion auxiliary girls sang several numbers. After the 11 o'clock toast, Mrs. Charles Van Wyk sang "Silent Night, Holy Night."

Santa Claus was there to distribute candy and presents to the children. Leland Auer's orchestra played for the dancing.

DELTA ALPHAS HAVE CHRISTMAS PARTY

Christmas festivities entertained members of the Delta Alpha Sunday school class of the First Methodist church at a party Monday evening at the home of the Misses Edna and Verna Knoll, 415 Fruit street. Miss Gertrude Ladd assisted the hostesses.

A decorated tree was the center of a gift exchange. Most of the presents were those that were left for the mission Sunday school.

The class will bring gifts for Christmas dinners.

Scrap books will be made for the nursery and beginners' departments at the next meeting which is to be a pot-luck dinner at the church.

Letters and cards were written to several former teachers and members of the class and refreshments were served.

Those present, besides the hostesses, were Miss Gezia Hay, the teacher; Miss Doris Welles, who has just returned from her second six years of service on the mission field in India; Miss Dora Saunby who returned with her from a trip around the world; Mrs. W. J. Saunby, Mrs. Mary L. Mann, Mrs. Ina Glasscock, Mrs. Jessie Craig, Mrs. Zoe Williams and the Misses Elizabeth and Laura Sherman, Lena and Lilley Confer, Olive and Bertha Briney, Maude and Alta Thomas, Hattie and Beulah Cornett, Mattie Smith, Melissa Burt, Alma Steward, Clara Barnes, Virginia Johnson, Irma DeBarr, Minnie Wild, Pearl Kimball and Esther Hennickson.

Woman's Club Hears Songs Of Noel

"Christmas comes but once a year."

Woman's club members heralded the holiday with songs by Santa Ana Junior collegians at the club meeting yesterday afternoon in the Veterans' hall.

Miss Myrtle Martin, college music instructor, was introduced by Mrs. F. A. Martin. She presented her girls' chorus with Jack Rannels, guest soloist.

Others singing were Nelson Rogers and Reuben Krutz, soloists; the girls' octet, and the mixed chorus closing with "Silent Night."

Mrs. Earl Ladd by special request read her Christmas poem, "A Mother Sees the Christ."

Mesdames William Wells, H. D. McIlvaine, R. A. McMahon and Herbert Johnson, hostesses, served pretty iced Christmas cakes with nuts and tea at a lovely holiday table. Mrs. E. M. Waycott, club president, and Mrs. Wells poured tea.

Mrs. Ona Sortwell, president of the Laguna Beach Woman's club, and Mrs. Setelle of the same club, and Mrs. Waldren of Minnesota were guests.

Gifts were exchanged around a festive Christmas tree.

Mrs. McMahon read "The Next Christmas," story of a miser's change of heart, in the study section session.

DISCONTENT SEEN IN FACES OF CLUBWOMEN, SAYS

"I saw no relaxation, only discontent and anxiety on the faces of women in the clubs I visited."

That was the comment of Mrs. E. E. Smith, state chairman of literature in the California Federation of Women's clubs, recently home from a northern California club tour, when she talked to Ebell book review section yesterday in the J. F. Burke home, Panorama Heights.

"Clubwomen in the federation were well clothed, but their faces reflected unhappiness," Mrs. Smith said. "Books I told them, will furnish the solitude, yet companionship, and the relaxation which they need."

"Women are reading more widely books dealing with the political situation. They are non-partisan, almost without exception," she added.

The speaker commented very briefly more than 20 worthwhile new books.

Mesdames Loyal King, W. E. Otis and B. H. Sharpless hosted. Refreshments were served.

CLUB HAS DINNER PARTY IN LAGUNA WITH MRS. SHIPKEY

Mrs. William Penn and Mrs. Arthur Shipkey were hostesses to their bridge club last evening at a gay Christmas dinner party in Mrs. Shipkey's attractive Spanish home at Laguna Beach.

Smoke tree sprigs and Christmas tapers in artistic tin can labra centered the long dinner table. Gifts were exchanged around the Christmas tree.

Mesdames Walter Hill and Ed McFadden won prizes in bridge. Other guests were Mesdames J. H. Daniger, Bob Delinger, Carl Edgar, George Parker, Charles Nussbaum, Arthur Angle, Wilbur Stewart, William Stroschein and George Chapman.

WASSAIL BOWL BRINGS BARN YULE PARTY TO CLIMAX

With Mrs. Robert Northcross quaffing first from the wassail bowl and explaining its significance of goodwill in the new year, an overflowing crowd at The Barn shared Santa Ana Community Players' annual Christmas festivities last night.

Mrs. Northcross handed the silver cup filled with wassail first to Mrs. W. H. Spurgeon, chairman of the evening.

Mary Steffensen accompanied Ernest Cozier Phillips in reading "The Other Wise Man." Additional Christmas scenes from many lands featured the program.

LIFE ASSOCIATION TO HAVE POT-LUCK

Standard Life association will have a pot-luck dinner tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock in the M. W. A. hall.

A gift exchange and Christmas program will follow. Arrangements are under Mrs. Lillian Harris and Mrs. Martha Schreff.

A short session of the lodge will be held.

Mary Stoddard Mother Who Sacrifices So That Daughter Can Have Every Material Gift, Forgets Character

By MARY STODDARD

Unselfishness is a rare and beautiful virtue—but it can be carried too far.

Too much self-sacrifice on the part of a mother is bad for her child, simply because it breeds selfishness in the child.

Mothers naturally want to make life as easy as possible for their children—but they are mistaken when they make it too easy.

The mother told about here probably feels that she is doing all she can for her child. She is, and in doing so, she's overdoing it.

Dear Miss Stoddard: Don't you think it is possible for a mother to sacrifice too much for a child? I know a woman, 35, who has been a widow for 10 years. She has a daughter, 16, in high school.

The mother works in a department store and keeps a small apartment for herself and the girl. The mother gets along on the scanty minimum. I happen to know that she buys 10-cent lunches. She hasn't had a new coat in six years. She never goes to shows, because they cost too much.

The daughter has everything, pretty clothes, permanent waves, the sheers of silk stockings.

No Work Done

When the girl gets out of school in the afternoon, she goes to mess, or plays around, or curls up on the davenport and reads. She never does any of the housework, and is too lazy even to start dinner.

Her mother does everything in the evening after she gets home from work, cooking, cleaning, washing, and ironing. She even presses and mends the girl's clothes.

The sad part of it all is that the daughter simply doesn't appreciate her mother. She treats her with no respect, and acts as if she were ashamed of her.

She is always complaining that she doesn't have enough clothes, and that she hasn't a lovely home "like other girls."

This makes the mother wretched. Instead of telling the girl that she is lazy and ungrateful, the poor woman just keeps still and tries to give the little parasite more and more.

The mother is worn out and shabby, but she was once very pretty, and is still attractive. Not long ago a man about her own age started to pay attention to her.

The daughter wasn't satisfied until she had taken her mother's boy friend away from her. The girl didn't really care for the older man and soon snubbed him. Naturally, he didn't come to see the mother any more either.

Even that didn't make the mother realize how selfish her daughter was.

CHAT AND SEW CLUB HAS YULE PARTY IN CAMPBELL HOME

The Christmas party of the Chat and Sew club was held at the home of Mrs. Ensley Campbell, 318 Parker street, Orange, last night.

A Christmas tree, white and green holly and gifts for all stimulated a gay holiday spirit.

Following the gift exchange, a dessert course was served on individual trays, decorated with Christmas favors.

Present were Mesdames E. C. Frevert, Carl Pister, Edwin Westcott, Oliver Wickersheim, Wilbur Wood, Earl Smith, C. E. Wood, Vern Estes, L. R. Doncaster, J. T. McInnis, J. W. Powell and James Smith, Orange; Mesdames J. J. Vernon, Dale Griggs, Ted Naill and Vergie Cameron of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Gussie White, Long Beach.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

Do you think parents should make sure that their children know the spiritual background of the Christmas holiday?

Mrs. R. E. Huckelbaldt: Yes, I do. I think it's all right to have the Santa Claus idea, too, though. It shouldn't detract from the spiritual side, at all. But it depends on the age of the child, whether the spiritual part can be understood. It's best to start as early as possible in explaining it to children.

Mrs. W. E. McBay: I think it's quite important, when the child is old enough to understand what you're talking about. Before they're 5 or 6 years old, I don't think it's much use to try to explain the spiritual side of Christmas.

Fashion Show Chairman Announced

Miss Nan Mead, president of Santa Ana Junior Ebell club, today announced Mrs. Colby McKinney's appointment as chairman of the juniors' annual spring fashion show.

Members of the auditing committee as appointed by Miss Mead include Mrs. Fenton Dean, chairman, Mrs. Quentin Matzen and Miss Mary Saulsbury.

DELTA CHI SIGMA HAS FORMAL INITIATION IN LECRIVAIN HOME

Delta Chi Sigma had formal initiation by candlelight Monday evening in the lovely Monterey home of Mrs. Julian Lecrivain, Talbot road.

Mrs. Lloyd Manderscheid presided. Initiates were Mrs. Corwin Frazee and Misses Dorothy Hanna, Alberta Greene and Alice Martin. Bowls of roses brightened the home, through whose rooms the guests walked admiringly after the ceremony, examining the clever arrangement of the furnishings.

REGISTRATION TO CLOSE FRIDAY FOR SCOUT CAMP

Girl Scouts who plan to attend winter camp Rokili, Dec. 31-Jan. 3, must make their reservations by Friday, Dec. 20, was the reminder from the executive council this morning.

Open to older scouts and leaders, the camp will be under direction of Mrs. R. E. Russick. Reservations are to be made with troop leaders.

NEW YEAR'S PARTY PLANNED BY CLUB

Plans for a New Year's party to be given probably at the Beverly Wilshire were discussed at the latest meeting of Mrs. Kermit Maynard's bridge club when she feted the group at a party in her home on South Parton street.

Present were Mesdames Allan R. Howell, Robert U. Smith, John S. Taylor and Misses Betty Howell and Earlene Farmer.

SPECIALTIES SNAPPED UP BY BUYERS

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. (AP)—Stock market buyers kept their eyes centered principally on specialties today to the neglect of some of the recent favorites.

The list settled down to a peaceful jog after a brisk start. A few leading issues backed up when it became evident the silver situation was still beclouded. Low-priced stocks were in demand. Radio was the most active tape performer at a small advance. Wheat firmed and cotton was little better than even.

Shares of A. O. Smith got up more than 4 points. Gainers of fractions to a point or more included Douglass Aircraft, Case, Western Union, Texas Corp., Seaboard Oil, American Telephone, Collins & Aikman, Sears Roebuck, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Gold Dust, Simmons Co. and Canada Dry.

Grain Market

CHICAGO, Dec. 18. (AP)—Despite a jump of 3/4 cent a bushel in the Rotterdam wheat market today, wheat prices here scored only moderate gains.

A comparative dearth of speculative buying orders here was evident. There were signs of Winnipeg selling in Chicago, and the fact that the final United States government crop report for 1935 was due after the close tended to make traders cautious.

Wheat closed easy at the same time as yesterday's finish to 5/8c higher. May 95 1/2c, corn unchanged to 1/4c up. May 59 1/2c-59 3/4c; oats 1/4-1/2c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents. Closing prices:

NEW DODGE CAR ANNOUNCED AT LOW PRICES

Yes, sir, it's more luxuriously appointed than ever before, states Louis Schlesinger, . . . and is bigger . . . the car that noted auto editors and famous fashion authorities all over America have acclaimed the beauty winner of 1936. This big, new, money-saving Dodge is now priced even lower than last year—as low as $640, list price at factory, Detroit. So economical that already owners from coast to coast report record-smashing economy—34 to 34 miles to the gallon of gasoline, 20% less oil consumption—this magnificent new Dodge is now priced only a few dollars more than the lowest-priced competitive cars. . . . See and drive this big, new, money-saving Dodge without delay! See the free economy test. Find out for yourself why owners say this big car actually costs less to own than the small, lowest-priced, competitive cars.—(Adv.)

SENTENCE MAN WHO HAD GUN

Jesus Lemus yesterday was sentenced to Folsom prison by Superior Judge H. G. Ames on a charge of possession of firearms by a felon. Lemus pleaded guilty to the charge, thus admitting that he had possessed a .38 calibre revolver and that he had been convicted of first degree burglary at Fresno Jan. 25, 1919. Following his guilty plea, a charge against him of possession of firearms by an alien was dismissed. Another charge of possession of Indian hemp also was dropped.

MORE ABOUT ELECTION

$6,574,000. Army engineers are to supervise the work.

The project is the result of years of study by consulting engineers of the county and the county flood control district. Known as the Elliott plan, the project has won the support of army engineers, boards of consulting engineers, and county engineers.

The program has been developed for two reasons: to protect the cities and farming land in the county from flood damage which is said to be inevitable; and to restore rapidly sinking water levels in the underground basin from which the county gets its supply.

Dam at Prado

To do this the project calls for construction of a central dam at the Prado site, in Riverside county on the upper Santa Ana river, which would store flood waters and release them gradually to sink into the underground basin at a rate at which they could be absorbed.

Seven other dams, at strategic points throughout the county also are to be constructed.

William H. Spurgeon, jr., head of the citizens' flood control committee, urged a heavy vote, and asked that voters wishing to be taken to the polls call 1495, so that a car may be sent for them.

Precinct workers of the citizens' committee made a last canvass of the city's 23 consolidated polling districts today, pointing out the necessity of those in favor of the bonds registering their opinion.

Tax Cost Told

Figures released by the citizens' water committee today showed the tax which will be paid for the project. A $4000 home, assessed at $2000, will pay an average yearly tax of $3 during the life of the 40-year bonds, while the average 10-acre orange grove, assessed at $550 an acre, will pay $8.25 per year, the figures showed.

Additional backing for the bonds was received last night, when directors of the Santa Ana Business Men's association, by a vote of 8 to 1, endorsed the issue, and pledged themselves to help get out the vote tomorrow.

Nelson T. Edwards, state senator from Orange, and 60-year resident of Orange county, in a statement today voiced unqualified approval of the bonds. "Not only am I for them myself," he said, "but Republicans in the county whom I have contacted are almost unanimous in their support of the issue."

S. W. McColloch, Placencia rancher and member of the State Emergency Relief committee for Orange county, also issued a statement today in which he urged support of the measure.

BENES NAMED TO SUCCEED MASARYK

PRAHA, Dec. 18. (AP)—Eduard Benes was elected second president of the republic of Czechoslovakia by the national assembly today to succeed Dr. G. Masaryk, who resigned last Saturday at the age of 85.

COMMUNIST BEHEADED

BERLIN, Dec. 18. (AP)—Adolf Claus, German Communist leader, was beheaded yesterday after Reichsfuehrer Hitler refused him clemency. Claus was sentenced for "preparation of high treason" last July 25.

Butter and Eggs

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18. (AP)—Produce exchange receipts: Butter, 190,700 lbs.; cheese, none; eggs, 1200 cases. Butter in bulk, 35 1/2c. Eggs, candled large, 27c; do medium, 22 1/2c; do small, 20 1/2c.

Make Orange County SAFE Assure Flood Control AND Water Conservation NOW!

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT has set aside a grant, $6,574,000, which will be contributed toward the construction of adequate Flood Control in Orange County, provided the voters will, on December 19th, approve this issue to raise the necessary additional sum of $6,620,000 to complete the $13,194,000 needed.

For every dollar we raise, the Federal Government contributes over ninety-nine cents. Do not let this great money-saving opportunity escape you forever. Vote "YES" December 19th.

Sat., Dec. 14—6:45 P.M.	Wed., Dec. 18—7:15 P.M.

6 Reasons Why You Should Vote "YES" Dec. 19

- 1 Will save 40,000 acre feet of water annually ($500,000 yearly cash saving).
- 2 Will stop Flood Menace to Orange County for all time—will enhance property values.
- 3 Our Federal Government will contribute $6,574,000 of the total moneys needed as an OUTRIGHT Gift—It will Never Have to be Repaid.
- 4 Put thousands of men to work and provide good, livable income for thousands

TOYS

A MUFFLED-RHYTHMIC NOISE ECHOED IN THE ROCK ABOVE HIS HEAD—

THUMP THUMP THUMP!

WHASSAT? SOLDIERS MARCHING! IN ONE OF THOSE THERE GROUND-LEVEL—ER—PASSAGES UP THERE! HELD UP THERE!

THEY'VE GONE! IF I ONLY HAD A DISINTEGRATOR—OR ONE OF THESE HERE NEW WHATCHACALLUMS—I COULD BLAST MY WAY UP THERE! BUT—BUT I AIN'T—AND I'M GETTING WEAKER—I'M STARVING—I-I GUESS I'M A GONER!

NOTHING DOING!

steadied himself and swore beligerently at the crew of the Nikki; at all fishermen who clutched up the way and thought they owned the whole Pacific.

Orvi, stricken, looked at him. "One thousand dollars," he waited as the man swung over the stern to splash at the water with a blade, "our net, he can't do that to our net."

Other voices joined from nearby boats and Anne caught occasional words. "Fellow working for the Farnsworth crowd." "Sorki brothers won't stand a chance of having it made good."

"The powerful engine of the boat started its hum, strangled, stopped. It stared again, choked. Time after time the performance was repeated, then suddenly it started toward the gillnetter.

Paralyzed, Anne watched until it came close. Horrified she faced the man who had slashed the net. Tom Farley, sobered now, stared at her in amazed recognition.

The gillnetter tipped with the wash of their wave as they veered by, and Anne sank to the floor of the boat.

There was no use of staying long on the river. Anne looked at the dangling net as George drew it slowly in. The great gash slashed in it had released the fish. Only a few were entangled in what was left.

"Like silk, it was," murmured Orvi.

When they had tied up to the wharf, Anne spoke. "Come up to my house, we'll pass yours quietly so Tecla won't hear."

But Tecla did hear. She had sat watching the lone boat putting back from the drift, and like every other woman with a man on the water, she wondered what was wrong.

"There is trouble," she said, opening the rear door and confronting them as they started up the stairs.

"Yes," answered the boys.

Lissa heard the tramp of feet and met them at the door. She took one look at their faces, then hurried them in, fiercely cheerful, her top knot riding her head like the comb of a fighting cock.

"Coffee we'll have, and I've cheese left to dip in it." She turned to Orvi, "take the crepe off your face and build a fire; Nikki's cold."

"I'm not," faltered Anne, and shivered with nervousness.

"Your spirit is; an open fire warms the heart."

Listening to their tale, Lissa sat squares of the leathery curd cheese as if she were cutting squares from the hides of the vandals who had ruined the net. She plopped them into the steaming coffee.

"Drink, then talk," she snapped. The fire crackled merrily, boots were pulled off and wool stockings fed stretched toward the blaze. The fishermen three, threatened by the steaming beverage, found their gloom lifting.

"We could mend the net," George decided, "but it would take till the end of the season."

"Don't worry, boys," Anne was trying to remember how much money was left in her account. "We'll buy a new one."

"It would be better to sue, and make them buy it for us," Orvi said in protest.

"We couldn't sue Tom Farley," Anne countered.

"Farley!" Tecla sat up straight. "Was he there?"

"He was the one who slashed the net."

"Nikki!" Tecla leaned forward. "He saw you? He knew who you were?"

"Yes," answered Anne, "he recognized me."

Tecla leaned back, a look of fatalistic resignation on her face. "I think Farley, he come to you boys to pay," she said.

"What?" they all cried in unison.

"Yes," she answered wearily, "he come to make the offer, but he come to see Nikki."

And Anne felt this was true. Having seen her in the Sorki brothers' boat, he would try to learn her whereabouts. Knowing she was not in a sanitarium, but rather with the people he was intent upon harming, he would want to know why she was there and what she was doing.

"I wish John was here," blurted Orvi.

John. Anne's heart quickened its beat at the name.

"Maybe you'd better go, Nikki," Tecla suggested.

"Go where?" she asked.

"To safety," Tecla answered.

"But, Tecla," she protested, "he can't do anything to me. I've done no wrong and surely he can't molest me in my own home."

"She's right," Tecla confirmed, and the top knot nodded emphatically. "She's every right in the world to be here. We've good locks on the door and I'd like to see the color of the man's hair who'd try to hurt her when I was around."

SANTA ANA'S OPPORTUNITY

SANTA ANA has an important question to decide tomorrow. As a city, it must decide whether it is to support the agriculture which makes it a city. It must decide whether it will manifest a sympathetic understanding of the needs of the farmer and thus prove its right to farmer friendship and farmer patronage.

Santa Ana believes it has solved its domestic water supply by joining the Metropolitan Water district. We hope it has. Why then, some may ask, should we join in a bond issue to insure water for irrigation purposes in the citrus districts? Such a question, of course, is a very elementary one, yet it is surprising how often we hear it. Santa Ana, without water, as we have often said, would again be the desert it once was. There is nothing new about that and nothing to be challenged. Why, then, do we repeat it?

BECAUSE there is that lack of something here which makes it difficult for farmers to understand Santa Ana and for Santa Ana to understand farmers. That's why. It is a strange situation, when one thinks of it. The interests of agriculture and of those who live in cities surrounded by agriculture, are identical. We were about to say that one cannot exist without the other. But that is not true. Agriculture could get along very well without Santa Ana.

There is Orange, a flourishing trade center, which seldom fails to extend inviting arms to the farmers of Orange county. Orange, knowing where its sustenance comes from, makes a thorough study of what farmers want and need and tries to help them get it. Orange, in the last bond election, favored the bonds because its people knew the bonds mean water to make its pay dirt productive. The vote in Orange was 1069 for and 509 against the bonds.

And there is Anaheim, lively and progressive. Does Anaheim forget where its bread and butter comes from? No, Anaheim has a very keen appreciation of the source of its wealth. Anaheim, of course, carried the water bonds by a vote of 1396 to 626 when the issue was up before.

Santa Ana, on the other hand, had this black mark chalked up against it at the October 4 election:

For the bonds, 3172; against the bonds, 2883. The total registered vote of the city was 15,291. The total vote was only 6,055. Thus, it is seen, Santa Ana could have saved the bond issue. And—

Don't think the farmers aren't thinking about that.

SANTA ANA is a neighborly, friendly city but some of its people forget sometimes where their responsibility lies. At least some of our country friends tell us they do. This is not a healthful situation. It must not endure. It cannot endure, if we are to forge ahead. We owe agriculture everything. We must, by our deeds, let our neighbors in the country know we realize our obligation to them. Mere words, mere gestures, won't do it. We are gratified to know our chamber of commerce president, W. H. Spurgeon, jr., has given liberally of his time and money in behalf of the bonds. So have many others. We wish there were more.

Farmers, for the most part, are united in the belief that the water conservation and flood control bonds are necessary to their welfare. They have studied their problem thoroughly. They have faith in the engineers who have planned the Prado dam and its subsidiary dams. They are leaving petty politics out of the picture in most instances. They realize they have their own interests to look after. And, because their interests are our interests, we as a city should go with them.

One other selfish interest presents itself. Santa Anans should not overlook it. It is employment. The project under consideration would give employment to approximately 7,000 men for a year, according to the engineers. Goodness knows we could use that many jobs in Orange county rather handily. No city in the county would benefit more than Santa Ana.

THERE has been injected into the question an uncalled-for bit of politics. J. F. Burke, who seems to be the leading spokesman for the opposition, has been in a fight with the supervisors for years. He is unrelenting in his opposition to anything which has their indorsement. We believe Mr. Burke has been right in a great many instances and decidedly wrong in others. We do not think he should let his prejudice stand in the way of Orange county's salvation.

It was apparent during Mr. Burke's debate with George Kellogg at Laguna Tuesday night that he was thinking more of ribbing the supervisors than of the practicability of the water bond issue. In fact he got clear off the subject a time or two in his heated denunciation of county officials. This isn't a political fight; it's an issue to be decided by sober judgment. Men who have studied the question for years say the plan now under consideration is sound and ultimately will be adopted, regardless of the outcome tomorrow. The government has made half the necessary funds available to us in the shape of an outright gift. This is our opportunity. We hope Santa Ana will see it.

News from China, where a Chinese general is playing Japan's game, reminds us again that Bret Harte's Truthful James was right when he said: "For ways that are dark, and for tricks that are vain, the heathen Chinese is peculiar."

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

That harum-scarum block of West 49th street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues offers an array of cafes as varied and colorful as those along the Mar-seilles and Havre water fronts. Most are low priced, garishly decorated and have waiters with pompadours.

O. O. McIntyre

Mrs. Lee's Chili Villa, discovered by Joe Cook and Will Rogers and featuring a visitor's book that reads like a "Who's Who" of the stage, screen and literature, is there. A tiny blaze of conspicuous red to symbolize its peppery fare. Mrs. Lee's languishes until dawn, then overflows.

There are also chowder counters and oyster bars, where the service is hipity-hop but comradely. Chowder is a White Water panacea for the hang-over. Steak houses stress double chops, the T-Bone, planked sirloin and hefty Idaho spuds. Too, chop sueys, one three-tabled with a single Chink doing everything.

In the medley is a cutely red-awninged touch called "Youth House—Dine and Dance." And there are idyllic and intimately boozed bazzars called "See Me Again" and "Dream O' Love." Also gypsy tea rooms, doughnut nooks, hamburger hutches and Spanish kitchens.

Yells of newsboys in large cities have a curious fascination. Each strikes a different leather-lunged tempo. For a number of years I've often passed a child on a Broadway corner just to hear the yodels of the hawkier out front. He sells 'em like hot cakes with his strange mumbo-jumbo. For a lornly sad-eyed, he lets go a sort of Alpine yodel now and then that sounds like "Aye-laitie—ee-ee!" and then after a 30 second interval and as though an afterthought there's a throaty bull-frog croak: "Bung-gee!"

In Cincinnati there is—at least was on my last visit—a globe-trotting newsboy as much a fixture as Fountain Square, opposite which he has stood from boyhood into grey-haired middle years. He is Jimmy Widdmyer, the first of the Hulls Guey Guys I ever saw. Jimmy knew the big-shots, the flashy gamblers of the Walnut street bars and the Latonia fox Nick Longworth always stopped for a moment when he came to town. To receive Jimmy's salute was something of a distinction.

It was inevitable those terrible twins of travesty, Ben Hecht and Charles V. MacArthur, who have burlesqued so many others, would eventually be put on the spot themselves. They were and are, some in the season's theatrical surprise packet called "Boy Meets Girl," an insanity that gives Sam and Bella Spewack, after several bad starts, a big lead in the risqué fare stakes. No show of the year excited so much continuous laughter. Even the dou- visages of Percy Hammond and Gilbert Gabriel burst into rosy smiles and Robert C. Benchley, the loudest laughing critic, had to be led out.

Grape vine rumors persist that E. Berry Wall is coming home for good after the holidays. Returning with his mountaineer's fistic, dove gray vests and chow dog. Once he was New York's greatest dandy, but when he went to Paris refused to change the dress style of his arrival. Thus he has for years presented a Gay figure along the boulevards. Rich, a bon vivant, he fitted into the social life and he and his wife became leaders of the American colony that is no more.

I have wondered if the long bow has not been drawn on these New York legends: That Damon Runyon drinks 15 cups of coffee a night; Paul Whiteman is in constant dread of some strange malady; Jack Pearl chases anyone who touches his earlobe until he touches theirs; Helen Morgan has a fit of dressing room hysteria every time she sings; George Jean Nathan has 35 overcoats; Morton Downey carries a pocketful of lodge emblems and machine gun shells; Cornell gets out of bed to walk alone in the rain.

For the first time in 14 years there will be no afternoon Christmas party at the Roy Howards. All the Howards are in the Orient. The yearly round-up massed a group of celebrities that often overflowed to the pantries. It was at one of these gatherings that Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey found themselves suddenly shouldered together with tea-cups in their hands, the big sissies, the first meeting since their last set-to.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. — The blow-up of Major George Berry's NRA congress bodes ill for the chances of reviving the Blue Eagle at the coming session of congress.

What was left after the supreme court finished its mauling, expires April 1. And there is little sentiment on capital hill to continue even the remnants, to say nothing of restoring old powers.

Progressives as well as Democrats and Republicans are sour on the torpedoes "experiment." The only group making any pretense of friendship toward the NRA is the A. F. of L. And this cordiality is chiefly on the surface.

With the Wagner labor disputes act in their pocket, most labor leaders are satisfied to let things ride as they are. Further, the more militant labor leaders favor new legislation along the lines of the Guffey coal act; in other words, "little NRAs" for each basic industry.

The apparel and textile unions already have announced their intention to offer such measures. Insiders are wagering that the NRA will be allowed to lapse. If any legislation is enacted, it will transfer the federal NRA powers to the Federal Trade Commission.

In fact, Berry himself is said to be secretly working on a bill to do just that, if all hope for the NRA vanishes.

Privately, New Dealers are not taking too seriously the collapse of Berry's attempt to pump new life into the Blue Eagle. From the very start the inner circles viewed his plan as a "trial balloon."

So it looks like "fini la guerre" for the Blue Eagle.

BANKHEAD
Rex Tugwell's Resettlement administration operates a project at Jasper, Ala., the state which is represented in Washington by Senator John Bankhead and his brother Representative William Bankhead, father of the glamorous Tugwell.

In tribute to their achievement, Professor Tugwell decided to name the Jasper project "Bankhead." However, the New Deal, in seeking to eradicate the name "Hoover" from Boulder dam, had ruled that no project could be named for a living man.

So the Jasper project has been named "Bankhead" for the Bankheads' father, now deceased, whose name also was John.

WHAT'S IN A NAME
"It's a good thing my name was Sokoloff, or I wouldn't have gotten anywhere in this country," says Nikolai Sokoloff, the man Harry Hopkins has picked to give jobs to unemployed musicians. "In America you demand that a musician have a foreign name. No man named Smith could be an orchestra conductor in the United States!"

Sokoloff himself was born in Russia, came to this country at 15, became a citizen at 24, married the daughter of a U. S. navy admiral at 25, and has conducted American orchestras since 30. He now declares:

"We must find American conductors for American orchestras. No more second rate conductors from Europe, to take our money and our opportunity."

Sokoloff talks about these things in "vivo tempo," with fire in his eye and a pounding fist. He thinks the federal music projects under WPA can help give America musicians of its own.

He sees the job as bigger than taking 17,000 musicians off the relief rolls. (About 12,000 have now been put to work.) He also wants to save America from mechanical music.

"Mechanical music is no closer to real music than a post card is to a great painting," he says. "We shall find some real conductors before this work is over, and present them to the country. And if one is named Smith, we will not make him change to Smithkofsky!"

BUREAU BAROMETER

Leave it to the book salesmen to get an accurate barometer of government efficiency.

One large firm instructs its salesmen to steer clear of the securities-exchange commission completely. Its employees are so busy that an attempt to interview them is a waste of salesman's time.

"Our best bet," confides one experienced book peddler, "is the postoffice department. There people have ample time to talk. It is not quite so good as the old NRA, however. It was a bad blow to us when that was abolished. Its employees had so little to do their faces actually lighted up when we came around."

ADDRESS UNKNOWN

The morning Maj. George Berry's NRA congress was scheduled to open, a well-dressed man approached one of the uniformed guards in the commerce department building.

"I am a delegate to this NRA meeting," he said. "Can you tell me on what floor it is being held?"

"It is not being held in this building, sir. It is taking place in the new federal auditorium on Constitution avenue."

"Well, isn't this the building where the NRA has its offices?"

"Yes."

"Where is General Johnson's office?"

"General Johnson's office?" said the astonished guard. "Mister, General Johnson doesn't live here any more!"

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Government accountants marvel at the scrupulous honesty of Henry Wallace. When he takes a half day off during a long trip, he deducts his per diem allowance and expenses for that time. . . . December salary boosts in NRA were determined upon simultaneously with the cuts announced Nov. 1. But it was thought good policy not to announce both cuts and raises the same time. . . . Five years ago, U. S. citizens regarded cashew nuts as a rare curiosity. Now, the department of agriculture finds, they rate third, surpassed only by walnuts and pecans. (Peanuts are not rated as true nuts.) Virtually all cashews come from India. . . . The average wage of musicians put to work by WPA is $80 a month. . . . Every year when the artificial reflecting pool of the Lincoln Memorial is cleaned out, several bushels of fish are taken from the water. This is a mystery to park officials, since the pool is concrete and there is no possible way for the fish to enter. Officials figure that park visitors must throw the fish in. Of course, another way is for them to enter minutely, just after spawning, through the intake.

The Fraternal Aid association celebrated the holiday season last evening when a fine turkey supper was served in Elks hall at 7 o'clock. After supper had been done full justice, a business meeting was held at which the following officers were elected, installation to take place at the next meeting: Mrs. J. W. Schenberg, J. Wiley Harris, R. L. Freeman, F. M. Robinson, A. L. Trickey, C. C. Cozad, Mrs. M. Zimmerman, George S. Smith and Mrs. R. E. Williams.

Mrs. Harry Hanson was hostess last Tuesday afternoon to the So So club, the afternoon being pleasantly spent with conversation and fancy work. At the close of the afternoon, Mrs. Hanson served very appetizing refreshments.

Mrs. Clarence Crookshank and little son, Ronald, were among today's visitors to Los Angeles.

After numerous meetings and conferences extending over a period of several months, C. A. Terwilliger has just succeeded in consummating a deal whereby he takes over the entire control of the property in Rawhide, Nev., formerly operated by the Rawhide Amalgamated Gold Mining company. A new company has been organized which is called the Santa Ana-Rawhide Gold Mining and Milling company. The following other well known Santa Ana business men have interested themselves in the concern: John McFadden, G. J. Mosbaugh and George R. Smith.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Everybody Loves a Fat Man, But Germany Will Tax 'Em!

OCCASIONALLY German genius flares up in brilliance. A suggestion comes from the Fatherland whereby empty treasuries everywhere could be replenished. It is proposed to levy a special tax on fat people. Abdominal yardage would yield its tribute. Every centimeter of additional girth beyond the fixed minimum would get socked another groat.

The old gag that "everybody loves a fat man" would be given real significance.

Why haven't tax schemers seized on this rich possibility of revenue? Here is a gold mine at hand which their grasping fingers have not touched. Its potential wealth is unbounded. We are told that a loaf of bread yields 52 different taxes between seedwheat and the consumer's table.

Here is an opportunity for a final raffle-off, even after the steaming bread and gustatory cake have disappeared.

The German suggestion is based on the assumption that "potbellies are superfluous and superannuated in the new Germany." In the good old days of kaiserism rotund figures were the rage. The buxom hausfrau and her schnapps-gurgling man were the symbols of German prosperity and contentment.

The "lean and hungry look" were carefully obliterated in ample folds and sundry creases.

Progress out of the depression has been retarded since the policy of cutting production of wealth was put into effect and today this country is behind all European countries except those now on the gold standard.—Prof Irving Fisher, Yale.

Ed. Strubbe is trying to get a little more pep into the 40 and Eight, but Santa Claus is offering too much opposition. However, the competition should not afford an alibi for the boys much longer as Santa only operates during the later part of December. There's to be a meeting at the Orange Legion hall tonight. I can't go because I belong to the veterans of the American Revolution, and therefore not eligible.

You can jingle all the bells you want to from the top of a bank or the top of Saddleback, but it won't be Christmas to me until there's snow on the ground, and I don't want to see it in Santa Ana.

No flood control, no rain, no umbrella.

The department of motor vehicles is sending out Christmas packages to automobile owners, quoting chapter 362, statutes of 1935, which provides that in addition to the registration fee, there is an additional penalty for vehicle license fee. In the case at court between the state of California and the owner of a certain antique automobile the infliction amounts to only 49, but that's enough. Fred Timm wanted to know if I had an Austin.

Samuel Hopkins Adams has an article in a recent issue of Nation's Business under the caption of "Trial Balance." To many of the boys the subject is obsolete. What's bothering most of 'em is is try and balance.

Friend comes in to tell me that Frank Was has been in bed with sciatic rheumatism. "Oh, well, everybody to his own inclination." Breakfast club members are urged to bring gifts to the meeting Thursday morning which later on go to the children's home. So, there's still a chance for me.

Jess Elliott has been wearing his hat down over his forehead at an angle of 45 degrees, and there was a reason for it. He removed the reason. That's why he tilts the forehead. It was a slight surgical operation, and while the operation was a success it sort of disoriented Jess' hat.

Asked "Shorty" Harrison how's the conduct. He replied in a loud voice that it was hundred per cent. "That boy wanted Santa Claus to hear him, and save him a letter postage."

Truck loaded with 1000 horses arrives. Looks like the Christmas spirit. Makes me think of my old family physician who said every man should have a hobby. About the only thing that recommends itself to me along the hobby line is that transportation wouldn't cost much, but you ain't gettin' no place. Now just imagine our most prominent citizens ridin' a hobby horse? Come to think about it this depression entitles us to an occasional laugh. Let 'em ride.

There isn't any chance for me to bestow Christmas presents upon all of the applicants. I got a government loan some time ago—and spent it.
